

Demographic Change and the Future of Europe: Implications for International Security and Transatlantic Relations

Nicholas Eberstadt

The American Academy in Berlin and Dresden Heritage e.V. would like to cordially invite you to the 15th Lisa and Heinrich Arnhold Lecture.

Nicholas Eberstadt

Henry Wendt Scholar in Political Economy, American Enterprise Institute

Demographic Change and the Future of Europe: Implications for International Security and Transatlantic Relations

Moderated by Brigitte Georgi-Findlay, Professor of North American Studies, TU Dresden

The Lecture will be held in English

Thursday, May 29, 2008

at 7:00 pm at the Festsaal, Rektorats-Villa of the TU Dresden, Mommsenstr. 11, 01069 Dresden

R.s.v.p. by May 29, 2008, by phone: +49 · (0)351 · 476 90 -11 or email: villa-salzburg@t-online.de.

DRESDEN
HERITAGE

The semi-annual Lisa and Heinrich Arnhold Lecture provides an opportunity to remember the salon-style evening gatherings of Dresden's Arnhold family. Until their emigration from Germany, banker and patron Heinrich Arnhold and his wife Lisa invited artists, academics, and public figures to scholarly presentations and dialogues. Fellows, Trustees, and Friends of the American Academy in Berlin, housed in the Hans Arnhold Center since 1998, gather in Dresden in cooperation with the Dresden Heritage e.V. to debate academic, cultural, and societal issues.